

Ancient Greek Theatre: The Comedy of Mike DeStefano
Can I Borrow Your Closet?
How a Tough Guy Overcame Homophobia

Event Description

Greek theatre is a tradition that flourished in ancient Greece over 2,000 years ago. Relive this ancient tradition in our very own Memorial Union Theatre! The show will take a hysterical, thought-provoking, politically incorrect look at fear, acceptance, and homophobia. With his New York-style of comedy, Mike DeStefano breaks down the stereotypes and shares his own personal story, while relating to students that may not understand the GLBT lifestyle. This speaker is also the LAST chance team members have to fulfill the requirement that every Greek man and woman attend at least one of the Spotlight Speaker Series.

When

Wednesday, April 25th, 2007 @ 7-9pm

Where

Memorial Union Theatre

Rules

- 1) Bring as many members of your team as you can so we can pack the place! Points will be awarded based on the percentage of your team that attends, so be sure to have everyone sign in.
- 2) Please remember to be respectful, and to represent the Greek Community in whatever way you think is best! This event will be open to all students, so let's show them what Greeks are really about!

Points

1.5 points per 1% of your team that attends (50 points max)

Don't worry, it will be a lot funnier than this cartoon
